Missouri Unmasked

The US Department of Education released debt to income ratio data for a set of colleges from Missouri anonymously on August 13, 2010. However, the figures in the Total Balance at Repay Entry for Denominator FY 2009 column in the Missouri Data tab of the spreadsheet correspond to the BalRepayEntryDen2009 column in the Repay and IPEDS data tab of the spreadsheet. The figures are sufficiently distinct to function as unique identifiers. There is only one match for each of the institutions in the Missouri data, enabling the identification of the colleges. Also, the list appears to be in alphabetical order, further confirming the accuracy of the unmasking. Note that this data is limited to just Missouri, so the debt to income ratios are unlikely to be reflective of performance for the nation as a whole for the handful of colleges that are national in scope.

The list of colleges appears on the next page to avoid splitting the list across two pages.
